Zeem

SAUDI ARABIA – RIYADH

Senior Front-End User Interface Developer

After three years of working in TieLabs with all my love and respect to TieLabs and Fouad Badwey (TieLabs CEO) I leave it to Zeem as a Senior Frontend Developer.

FROM
Oct 2015

TO Oct 2018

(3 YEARS)

Tielabs

DUBAI, UNITED ARAB EMIRATES

Senior Front-End User Interface Developer

I worked at TieLabs as a UI Developer, spend most of time in developing the Jannah Theme, Jannah is one of the most popular magazines' theme on ThemeForest in the last year, and still achieve a progress.

During This Period I gain more of experience in WordPress. Also, I still accept freelancing WordPress projects, Woocommerce projects.

In my opinion, TieLabs is a great place to gain good experience in dealing with WordPress combined with UI development despite my main role is a UI Developer.

FROM
Aug 2015

TO Oct 2015

(3 MONTHS)

Demofinf

NASR CITY, CAIRO

Front-End User Interface Developer

The main reason that leads me to leave Demofinf is the weakness of Demofinf CMS, the main reason about that is the chaotic codes, there aren't any guides the developers follow to strengthen the maintainability of the code, so each developer follow his mind and the result was as seen.

Imagine a WP developer comes from a strong experience in rich CMS (WordPress) to a poor CMS (in my point of view), I can't stay more time with Demofinf CMS so I begin in searching about another best opportunity.

Interestingly, I recently knew that Demofinf began to create a new section for developing WordPress.

FROM

SutiabWeb

ANYWHERE :)

Front-End and WordPress Developer

As a freeLancer (Wordpress Developer - UI Developer) I accept more of WordPress projects from small business to large. I've done a lot of Projects and I'm still, I like my work so much so I spend a lot of time in it without boring.
